GENERAL.

1. Every public slaughter-house shall be under the management of an officer of the Sanitary Board, who shall be called a Superintendent, and the term “the Superintendent,” when hereinafter used, shall mean the Superintendent or Deputy Superintendent of any public slaughter-house.

2. Animals brought for slaughter must be presented at the gate assigned to their class and at no other, and must be brought at such hours as may, from time to time, be fixed and announced by placard posted in some conspicuous place upon each slaughter-house.

3. Animals brought at other than the appointed hours may be refused admittance or, if admitted, may be detained for inspection till the following day.

4. No animal shall be admitted unless it bears or has attached to it some distinguishing mark by which it can be identified.

5. Animals on being admitted shall be confined in the pen assigned to them and no other, and shall not be removed therefrom except by the order of the Superintendent.

6. Animals suspected by the Superintendent of being diseased may be detained for observation, removed to a separate pen and dealt with as the Superintendent may direct. Any owner dissatisfied with the decision may appeal to the Health Officer, whose decision shall be final.

7. The owner of any animal detained in a pen shall be bound on the order of the Superintendent to provide such animal with food, water and bedding, whatever the cause of detention may be.

8. No animal that has been admitted for slaughter shall be removed from the slaughter-house alive.

9. No animal shall be taken from the pen and introduced into the killing-room, until and unless it has been marked by the Superintendent, with a mark to show that it has been passed as fit for slaughter.

10. As far as possible, animals shall be killed in the order of their admission, provided such order can be adhered to without causing stoppage or delay.

11. No animal shall be removed from the pen and taken into the killing-room, unless the owner, or at least one person to represent him, be present to claim the carcase.

12. The carcasses of all animals dying of disease shall be destroyed or otherwise dealt with as the Board may deem advisable.

13. No person shall inject water into any carcase.

15. No person shall remove or mutilate any portion of a carcase or substitute for any portion of a carcase a portion of another, so as to make it appear that such carcase was not affected with disease. A carcase of which any portion is missing at the time of inspection shall be dealt with as if the whole had been diseased and unfit for human food.

16. No carcase or any part thereof shall be removed from the slaughter-house, unless and until the Superintendent or other officer or servant authorized by him shall have marked it with the Sanitary Board stamp.

17. All dead meat shall be removed from the slaughter-house by the gate appointed for its kind and by no other. No dead meat shall be carried from one department of the slaughter-house to another.
